Public	Major Electrical Transmission Lines	This feature class/shapfile represents electric power transmission lines in the State of Florida. Transmission Lines are the system of structures, wires, insulators and associated hardware that carry electric energy from one point to another in an electric power system. Lines are operated at relatively high voltages varying from 69 kV up to 765 kV, and are capable of transmitting large quantities of electricity over long distances. Underground transmission lines are included where sources were available. Orange County Planning Data	Orange County Urban/Rural Service Areas	Areas outside of the County's USA are considered to be in the Rural Service Area (RSA). These areas, which generally are not planned for urban development, provide for a rural lifestyle or agricultural activity. Other than those exceptions outlined in the Comprehensive Plan, public water and wastewater service is generally not provided in the RSA. The existence of publicly owned facilities in the RSA is not intended to encourage utility connection for rural properties. Service exceptions outside of the USA include Growth Centers, Horizon West, the Lake Pickett Study Area, and Rural Settlements where the BCC has formally determined a public need to protect the health, safety, and welfare of the citizens.
